

ELMER

This will be Elmer's day forever. On one day a year they decorate themselves and parade.

The other elephants knew it could only be Elmer. They had the biggest laugh. It started raining.

Elmer went back to the other elephants. None of them noticed Elmer. Elmer wanted to laugh. He shouted:

BOOOOOOOOOOO!!!

All elephants are colourful and happy.

Elmer's patchwork started to show again.

Elmer was different.

The other elephants were sleeping.

He met a tiger, a lion, a zebra...

Elmer is sad, because he is different. He is not like the other elephants. In the morning he slipped quietly away.

Elmer walked through the jungle. He met other animals.

There is a herd of elephants. They are all grey. They are tall or fat or thin. They laugh at Elmer.

He found a bush with elephant-coloured berries. He shook the bush and the berries fell on the ground.

Elmer rolled over the berries - and looked like any other elephant.
